

THE STOCK MARKET DOLL

A Firm Tone in the Day's Wall Street Dealings.

The Granger Shares, Pacific Issues, and Louisville and Nashville Relative Active Features in the Operations—Jersey Central and Illinois Central Strong—Dividend Rumored.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Stock Market was exceedingly dull throughout the day's brief business session, but its tone was one of firmness.

There were few developments of any importance over night bearing upon the market apart from the completion of the Democratic national ticket at the Kansas City Convention yesterday.

The advices from China, while still disquieting, appeared to cut no figure in the local dealings, and the London market was closed on account of a general strike being made to the Stock Exchange building there.

Relatively active features of the market were the Granger Shares, Pacific Issues, and Louisville and Nashville. The last named continued heavy on misgivings in regard to the rate of dividend to be declared next week.

Particularly strong features of the market were Jersey Central and Illinois Central, the latter advancing on rumors that the rate of dividend would be increased at the next meeting.

The steel stocks in the main were firm. Expectations of a strong showing to be made by the banks of today in their weekly statement were common and contributed to the steadiness of the general market.

The Stock Market was dull and showed no particular features today, thus giving some disappointment to those that had hoped for a continuance of the advance of the early days of the month. The market was off somewhat, but there was a fractional recovery during the first hour. After that there was no particular tendency and even after a surprising rally statement from the market could not get up any activity in a small decline. The week has seen news from China and what Wall Street has decided to consider a growing concern. The Kansas City news at first seemed to indicate that it is probable that very large amount of the public was induced to buy the new issue of this there has been a setting back toward the narrow professional market of two weeks ago. Opinions as to the next movement of the market are not worth much, but perhaps a small decline should be expected after the advance of the early days of the month. The market for investment would be proper and conservative in any such recession.

The bank statement figures were poor and they were more disappointing than usual because the Street had been looking for a fairly good showing. The deposits increased $1,270,175; loans decreased $5,278,600; specie decreased $1,365,700; legal deposits $1,604,600; deposits decreased $2,400,500; circulation decreased $37,100. The explanation of the decrease of nearly $2,000,000 in cash where an increase had been expected, is that one of the most important banks manipulated the statement of last week in some way to help out the trust companies in their showing at the end of the fiscal year. Last week's statement was much more favorable than had been expected. The result of any such manipulation must be of course eventually.

The price of wheat and corn was still off this morning, and the grangers held their own well at the prices of yesterday's close, which show a good gain for the week. After the bank statement there was some selling. The group has been one of the strongest during the week despite the fact that there are still many bearish opinions regarding it.

The Pacific were fairly strong, Union common, showing more support than Northern Pacific common. The selling of Northern Pacific is not considered of importance. The stock of a group of friends at its present level, President Mellon says the crops along his line are nearly as large as they were last year and that the business of the company will be excellent.

The earnings of the American Steel and Wire Company for the five months of the fiscal year were $6,300,000 or more than enough to pay the dividends on both the preferred and common stocks for next year. A showing of this kind could be made by nearly all of the new steel companies. The figures are a curious comment on the present range of prices in the group, steel and wire sold at a point today and other stock declined.

Sugar held its own, but did not advance, as many had hoped it would.

Louisville continues rather weak. Some of the gossip suggests that it is not likely to be in a position to pay the dividends on its 1 percent "extra" per year. The rather poor showing of the stock of the Louisville last week of the fiscal year also undoubtedly has caused some selling of the stock. On the whole, it would seem that the stock should be bought on a decline. The Louisville earnings of the company for one week are a very small portion of a year's business.

REVENUE CUTTER CADETS.

BALTIMORE, July 7.—The Revenue Cutter Service practice boat Chase, now lying in Curtis Bay off the Baltimore Yacht Club, being painted and fitted with stores, has seven cadets, comprising the senior class, who were advanced from the junior by the graduation of the 1930 class and their being commissioned third lieutenants. The seniors are: P. B. Harwood, Jr., Marion, Mass.; C. F. Howitt, of Port Antonio, N. J.; L. F. H. Jr., of Baltimore; Emory H. Fogarty, of Worcester, Mass.; W. H. Hunter, of Baltimore; John M. They will graduate this year, providing they pass the final examinations. Then the junior class candidates are to be advanced to be seniors and another class will be admitted to fill vacancies.

Competitive examinations this year were severe and the result was the inauguration of the cadet system by the revenue cutter service. Nearly 300 youths prepared themselves for examination to fill the eight vacancies in the service. The successful candidates are said to have been the pick of a very large number who made high averages in the Civil Service examinations. The juniors on board the Chase are:

William A. Whittier, of North Berwick, Maine; George S. Tiley, of Hyde Park, Mass.; Cecil M. Gabbett, of Savannah; William R. Seales, of Oskosh, Wis.; William H. Shes, of Albany, N. Y.; Edward S. Addison, of Baltimore; Leon C. Covell, of Washington, D. C.; Philip W. Lauriat, of Bedford, Mass.

General Tyler went back to police headquarters and the investigation had to be run all over again. It was found that the pin had been in the hands of a score of persons, most of whom were jewelers.

"The men are given all the liberty that the discipline of the institution during their stay," said Mr. Weyler. "They are not at work. At the end of the day's work about 4:45 o'clock, they take a good sponge bath at a large trough, clean up and at 5:30 o'clock make up their quarters looking as fresh as though they had not been at work during the day."

ROBBED OF A FORTUNE.

New York Thugs Take an Aged Man's Money.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Joseph Brazil, seventy-one years old, arrived in this city two weeks ago from Peru and secured apartments at 20 Hamilton Avenue. He carried about his waist a belt containing $6,000 and a draft for $200. Mr. Brazil went to John McDonald's saloon, at 13 Hamilton Avenue, on the afternoon of July 4 and ordered a drink. He tendered in payment a gold piece of the value of $5, but the bartender refused to accept it.

Mr. Brazil then opened his vest, and unbuttoning the belt, took out a second piece of gold, which he tendered to the bartender. At that time, he saw Mr. Brazil open the bag and expose the gold, and one of them walked up to him and induced him, it is alleged, to enter the back room of the saloon. He says that when he reached the back room he was seized by three men, who forced him over his table and held a handkerchief over his face. One of them, he says, then took the belt from around his waist, and opening it removed the gold.

The men then fled, leaving him in the back room to overcome from weakness as the temperature of the room was 90 degrees, and he was unable to report the robbery to the police. One suspected man has been arrested.

LITTLE WORK FOR CONVICTS.

Maryland Penitentiary Shows Record of Little Work Done.

BALTIMORE, July 7.—The convicts in the Maryland Penitentiary are having about one-third less work to do than usual, owing to slack demand for the products of their labor. The shoe department, Warden Weyler said, is turning out about 2,500 pairs a day instead of about 5,000 pairs, the usual amount.

The molding department is the hottest place about the institution. There are about 100 convicts, mostly strong, young colored men, who work in a temperature from 120 to 130 degrees.

The regular keeper in charge of these men was sick yesterday and his substitute was called in before he had been in the place for more than a day.

"The men are given all the liberty that the discipline of the institution during their stay," said Mr. Weyler. "They are not at work.
